

Madan M. Rehani, PhD

Dr. Rehani is currently Director, Global Outreach for Radiation Protection at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, USA and is President, International Organization for Medical Physics (2018-2021).

Formerly he was Radiation Safety Specialist at the International Atomic Energy Agency for 11 years and prior to that Professor and Head of Medical Physics at the All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi, India. He is Member, International Commission on Radiological Protection (ICRP) and has been author of 8 Annals of ICRP, 15 publications of IAEA. He is Senior editor BJR, has contributed editorials in British Medical Journal, International Journal of Cardiology and published in The Lancet. He has published many multi-national research papers and has been responsible for patient safety improvements in more than 70 countries. He has many awards to his credit.